This case was based on an interstate shipment of potatoes which were below the represented grade and standard.

On March 12, 1935, the United States attorney for the Southern District of Florida, acting upon a report by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the district court an information against Ernest H. Wilson, trading as E. H. Wilson, Hastings, Fla., charging shipment by said defendant, in violation of the Food and Drugs Act, on or about April 22, 1934, from the State of Florida into the State of New York, of a quantity of potatoes which were misbranded.

The potatoes, contained in sacks, were alleged to be misbranded in that the statement, "No. 1", borne on the sacks, was false and misleading, and in that by reason of said statement the potatoes were labeled so as to deceive and mislead the purchaser, since the statement represented that the potatoes were No. 1 grade potatoes, that is, meeting the standard required for U. S. No. 1 potatoes," whereas in fact the potatoes were of a lower grade and standard than U. S. No. 1 grade potatoes, on account of grade defects in excess of tolerances permitted for such grade of potatoes.

On October 11, 1935, defendant entered a plea of nolo contendere and the court placed defendant on probation for a period of 1 year.
