

NATURE OF CHARGE: That the defendants had been for several years and at the time of the filing of the complaint were engaged in the business of picking and packing crab meat and shucking and packing fresh oysters; that during that time the defendants had been shipping in interstate commerce, fresh crab meat in violation of the law, as follows: Adulteration, Section 402 (a) (3), the product was contaminated with fecal B. coli; and, Section 402 (a) (4), it had been prepared under insanitary conditions whereby it may have become contaminated with filth.

The complaint alleged further that the insanitary conditions in the factory arose out of the presence of rodents and rodent excreta in and around places in the factory where the crab meat was being prepared and in and around the equipment used in its preparation, thereby subjecting it to contamination by rodents and rodent excreta.

PRAYER OF COMPLAINT: That the defendants be perpetually enjoined from shipping into interstate commerce adulterated fresh crab meat, and that a preliminary injunction be granted during the pendency of the action.

DISPOSITION: November 3, 1947. The defendants having filed an answer praying for dismissal of the complaint but subsequently having consented to the entry of a decree, judgment was entered enjoining and restraining the defendants from introducing or delivering for introduction into interstate commerce any adulterated food, specifically fresh crab meat, which they had manufactured or prepared for shipment or would manufacture or prepare for shipment.
